ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Ruthie Kimani is a life enthusiast, ecosystem builder, and gifted communicator who thrives at the intersection of storytelling, creativity, and impact. As a spoken word artist and floetrist, she crafts narratives that inspire boldness, self-discovery, and paradigm shifts. Whether on stage or through the written word, Ruth believes in the power of conversation to ignite change and forge meaningful connections. Loving my middle name is her poetic invitation to embrace the in-between, celebrating the beauty of every shade—light, dark, and everything in between.
