

ABOUT THE BOOK

Making High-Stakes Decisions under Pressure is an essential guide for business leaders facing high-stakes situations. This book combines classical decision-making theories with modern insights to help you navigate decisions with confidence, even under very tight constraints and incomplete information.

The book covers the psychological and physiological aspects of decision-making, practical tools like SWOT analysis and decision trees, and the role of technology. Through real-world case studies, you'll learn strategies to manage stress, leverage both analytical and intuitive approaches, and enhance your decision-making skills. This book is designed to empower leaders to make informed, strategic decisions in challenging circumstances.
